

Waterlines reviewers

The following reviewers have freely contributed their time and expertise to maintaining the high standards of the papers published in Waterlines in 2008. Their detailed comments and advice to authors have been encouraging as well as exacting. The Editors would like to thank them for their important contribution.

Mansoor Ali, Practical Action
Erich Baumann, SKAT
Maggie Black, independent consultant
Francois Brikke, WSP
Richard Carter, Cranfield University
Robert Chambers, Institute Development Studies, Sussex University
Frances Cleaver, Bradford University
Hadrian Cook, independent consultant
Oliver Cumming, WaterAid
Val Curtis, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine
Jeroen Ensink, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine
Barbara Evans, WEDC/ independent consultant
Suzanne Ferron, independent consultant
Richard Franceys, Cranfield University
Amaka Godfrey, WEDC

Guy Howard, DFID Bangladesh
Hazel Jones, WEDC
Dick de Jong, IRC, Netherlands
Deepa Joshi, Winrock International, Washington DC
R. Mukami Kariuki, World Bank
Pete Kolsky, World Bank, Washington
Bobby Lambert, Consultant
Dan Lapid, Center for Advanced Philippine Studies, Manila
Brian Mathew, independent consultant
Peter Morgan, Aquamor, Zimbabwe
Susan Murcott, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Patrick Moriarty, IRC
Jonathan Parkinson, WS Atkins International Ltd
Eduardo Perez, World Bank
Arno Rosemarin, Stockholm Environment Institute
Rebecca Scott, WEDC, Loughborough University, UK
Marielle Snel, IRC, Netherlands
Steve Sugden, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Kevin Tayler, WEDC/Cardiff University/independent consultant
Andrew Trevett, WHO, Bangladesh.
Sean Tyrell, Cranfield University
James Webster, Cranfield University