

Enrich your online resources with 50 years of impactful research

The Practical Action Publishing eLibrary of resources comprises 1,210 ebooks – 130 of which are published under an Open Access licence – and 200+ additional free technical documents, published between 1974–2024, that together bridge the gap between research and practice and provide urgent insights into key issues in international development.

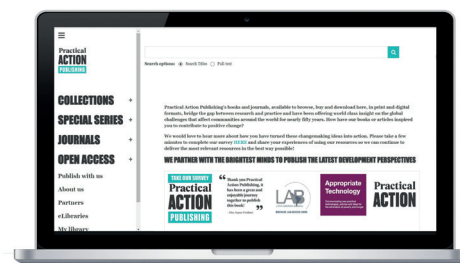

As exclusive publishing and distribution partner to many international organizations and academic research institutions, including the Humanitarian Standards Partnership, Oxfam GB, WEDC, Latin America Bureau, INTRAC, and the Institute of Development Studies, we are able to host a varied and wide-ranging field of subjects on our platform practicalactionpublishing.com, drawn from the work and research of world-renowned international development academics and practitioners.

These resources produced during the past 50 years continue to be central to many policy documents, news articles, and global definitions of terms; and are regularly selected as course texts, and/or used as vital technical manuals in the field.
